

CCAPP CREDENTIALING Ethics Complaint Process

Introduction

ETHICS RESPONSIBILITIES FOR CREDENTIALLED COUNSELORS – Duty to Report

Whenever a registered, certified, or licensed counselor becomes aware of a potential ethical violation involving a CCAPP Credentialing licensed, certified, or registered individual, (See: CCAPP Code of Conduct) a complaint MUST be filed directly with CCAPP Credentialing office.

CCAPP AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE CONSEQUENCES:

CCAPP Ethics determinations are independent of DHCS determinations. Section 13060(f), Chapter 8, Division 4, Title 9 of the California Code of Regulations specifically grants certifying organizations the authority to, “impose more stringent standards at their discretion” relating to counselor conduct. CCAPP is a private corporation that can make autonomous decisions regarding the application of sanctions. The CCAPP Ethics Committee, CCAPP Credentialing Board, or CCAPP Appeals Panel may impose a sanction that is greater than any sanction imposed by the Department of Health Care Services. CCAPP sanctions may be applied concurrently or independent of DHCS sanctions.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT:

Ethics violations are determined by the CCAPP Code of Conduct for Credentialed Alcohol and Drug Professionals and State of California AOD Counselor Code of Conduct, which include standards of conduct in accordance with Section 13060(f), Chapter 8, Division 4, Title 9 California Code of Regulations.

UNIFORM DISCIPLINARY GUIDELINES (UDG):

The UDG contains “guidelines” for consequences, or sanctions, based on violations of the codes of conduct. It is the primary resource utilized by the CCAPP Ethics Committee and Credentialing Board for determining sanctions. However, it is not an allinclusive document and certain circumstances may require determinations be made outside of the UDG guidelines. These circumstances may include the absence of a sanction for a specific violation, as well as mitigating or aggravating circumstances that may warrant modification of a specific sanction. For example, a new registrant who purchased a homemade pie from a client during the holidays might not receive the same sanction as an experienced counselor who pursued a certain client to hire as his/her housekeeper.

A departure from the UDG would take into consideration factors including previously imposed sanctions for the same violation, sanctions listed in the UDG for violations of similar severity/impact, and the appropriateness of the sanction based on counselor experience. Any departure from the UDG requires review and approval from both the Ethics Committee and Credentialing Board.

In the absence of a sanction for a specific violation, the Ethics Committee must refer to previous recommendations for the same type of violation as well as existing sanctions for violations of similar nature and or impact.

In applying a higher sanction, the Ethics Committee, Credentialing Board, or Appeals Panel can consider the following:

- There are multiple complaints filed against the respondent within five years of the complaint.;
- There are multiple violations substantiated during the course of the investigation;
- Respondent shows grave indifference to the impact of the behavior on clients or coworkers;
- Respondent is unwilling to accept accountability for the infraction or shows a genuine lack of ability to commit to altering future behavior in regard to the offense.

Committee recommendations require concurrence of a minimum of three Committee members unless a sanction is greater or less than the UDG in which case a unanimous vote is required.
